

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of fruitless study, that one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called "Allegro," to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of trying he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allegro with the understanding that if the first bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. BLACKSTONE

Dorothy Phillips, remembered through a long line of Mr. Holobar's screen successes, from "Hearts of Humanity," to "Man-Woman-Marriage," is star in the production "Hurricane's Gal," in which the theme of the air has been liberally utilized, which comes to the Blackstone theater on Sunday for a three day run.

Hydroplanes, destroyers, and a big three masted schooner, are some of the outstanding features in this stirring drama, and swift action of the sea. Miss Phillips has the role of the mistress of a smuggling schooner; ruling its rough crew with a ferocity that is softened by good humor. There is ever a pistol in her pocket—and yet she has as her companions a rag doll, a monkey and a goat.

It is a tale of adventure that is logical and convincing from beginning to end and the producer has brought out the star's highest attainments as an emotional actress of pronounced capabilities.

"Hurricane's Gal," combines thrills, suspense, love, hatred and humor with swiftly moving sequences. Complications arise when a stowaway is discovered in the hold. He is young and handsome, and for the first time in her romantic life, Lola falls in love. Later however, she learns that the stowaway is a spy, and he betrays the smugglers into the hands of the government.

Wallace Berry the most royally hated villain in motion pictures displays his most accomplished forms of wickedness and brutality in "Hurricane's Gal." Robert Ellis appears as leading man to Miss Phillips and others in the supporting cast are Gertrude Astor, Jack Donovan, Frances Raymond, and James O. Barrows.

LASALLE

"Another Man's Shoes," the picture that is to be shown at the LaSalle today tells a thrilling, unusual murder story; of an innocent man and death by hanging, starting him in the face.

It is one of the strongest dramas in which the popular Herbert Rawlinson has yet appeared—a most interesting story, replete with dramatic scenes. This picture has been taken from a novel that has enjoyed world-wide popularity—that has been read and re-read in every home in the country.

Essentially it is a story of adventure and love, that thrills from start to finish, and builds up to a strange, unexpected climax. "Another Man's Shoes," is so extraordinary, so unusual, and the story is rich about all others, in human interest and settings, reaching into society's splendor and revealing profound truths about human nature, that LaSalle patrons have a rare treat in store for them.

Barbara Bedford has never looked more lovely than in this bewitching picture, and mounts to emotional heights with skill and finesse.

That Audrey Munson does not exaggerate in her story of the struggles and trials of the innocent, this model is powerfully shown in her photoplay, called "Heedless Moths," in which the living "Venus" enacts one of the most stirring dramas ever recorded, and comes to the LaSalle on Monday and Tuesday.

CASTLE

"Peaceful Peter," the picture that comes to the Castle today is full of snap and vim. There is much hard-

General Motors vs. U. S. Steel

Many market students find points of similarity which lead them to believe that eventually the General Motors will occupy the same position in the automobile field that U. S. STEEL does in the steel world.

riding and hard fighting, intermingled with sufficient good, clean comedy to lift it above the average picture and place it in a plane by itself.

Some of the outstanding features of this production are: the excellent acting of the cast, the beautiful settings, and some realistic fights. The theme is well worked out and the plot claims particular distinction owing to the fact of its originality and provides very much interesting entertainment.

The direction is faultless and the photographic effect could scarcely be improved upon. The New Hart who has been starred in this picture is given much opportunity to prove what a fine actor he is.

"The World's Champion," Wallace Reid's hilarious comedy will be shown at the Castle on Monday.

AUDITORIUM

Although Earl Williams is familiar to most motion picture fans as a dress suited, man of the world type of roles, he is perfectly ready to try his hand at more rough and ready characterizations. In "Fortunes Mask," the feature being shown at the Auditorium today he plays the part of Dick Maloney, a breezy, rolicking young gentleman who is equally ready for a fight or a frolic.

Williams was an all-around athlete in his college days and he is quite capable of acquitting himself well in the numerous rough and ready fights in which Dickey Maloney finds himself involved, thanks to his red headed impetuosity of temperament. Dickey drops down on the central American town of Corralito from nowhere and proceeds to stir things up. He sets up a party for the evening, falls in love with the prettiest girl in the country, and beats up half the standing army. For this last breach of the peace, he finds himself lodged in the calaboose on the day when the star of the picture is urgently required to be the leader in a revolution. His escape from jail and arrival on the field of action just in time to furnish a climax to this picture is thrilling and exciting in the extreme. Through all the vivid action of "Fortunes Mask" runs a vein of mystery which adds decidedly to the interest. And when Dickey Maloney takes off his red wig and reveals his identity, he turns out to be the most unexpected person in the picture.

A comedy "Spring Fever" is also on the program.

Advertising Man Tells About Tanlac

"Advertising men watch each others' work pretty close, and of course I followed the Tanlac ads. I want to say it's just like they claim because I tried Tanlac and it fixed me up fine."

This statement was made recently by E. H. Kramer, well-known advertising specialist, 6110 Eberhart Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"I had a bad attack of stomach trouble," he said, "became terribly run down and nervous and lost a lot of weight. It was next to impossible for me to sleep and I was losing my grip on work. My appetite was just about gone and the little I did manage to eat caused me awful pains, gas and heartburn."

"Tanalac gave me an appetite like I used to have when a boy on the farm. I have gained fifteen pounds, sleep like a top and always feel ready for the biggest job I can get. Tanlac is one medicine with real power."

Tanalac is sold by all good druggists.
